DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN'S pursuit of engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS

By Joseph M Sanderson,
For Publishing by Subscription,
A Biography of the Signers
OF THE
Declaration of Independence,
Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exertion of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed; that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1819.

The President of the U. States has recognized CHARLES A CAZENOVE, Esq. as Vice Consul from the free Hanseatic city of Hamburg, for Alexandria and the District of Columbia.

We understand, (says the New-York Gazette) that a British frigate is daily expected at this port, with Mr. Canning, the new Minister Plenipotentiary to the U. States.

The Secretary of the Navy arrived at Strother's Hotel in Washington on Sunday afternoon.

Several hundred of poor persons, at a fair lately held in the neighborhood of the country of Limerick, Ireland, hired themselves for 4 pence a day, without diet.

SINGULAR PROCEEDING.

The following official notice has been given by the American Vice-Consul at Coquimbo, in Chili, to Capt. Seth Pinkham of Nantucket, commander of the American whaleman Dauphin.

SIR.—I have been informed officially by the government of this province, that an exclusive privilege has been granted by the general government of Chili to the Chilian ship St. Rosa del Pacifico, for the fishing of whale in the Bay of Coquimbo, and the boundaries thereof; in consequence of which grant you are to consider yourself as no longer entitled to the fishing of whale in the aforesaid port.

I have the honor to be yours, &c.
W. STEWART.

From the Vice-Consul of the U. S. }
Coquimbo, July 20, 1819. }

Several copies of the following notice were recived in Philadelphia by the last arrivals from England. We do not recollect to have before seen any notice of the act to which it alludes:

"COWES.—By an Act of Parliament, 59th of Geo. 3. ch. 54. American or Portuguese ships or vessels entering or touching at any of the ports of the United Kingdom, are to pay no higher light charges, or other rates and duties, than are payable on Britsh ships.

Custom House, 1st of August, 1819.
Signed JOHN WARD, Collector."

COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE.

A letter received from London, says,—"We understand that a commercial treaty with France is now forming, constructed on principles of the most liberal policy and equally calculated to advance the real interests of both countries. French wines and and silks, it is said, are to be admitted into this country at a lower rate of duty—and France, in return, is to admit our cotton goods (which are now wholly prohibited) at a rate of duty which will render their general use extremely probable." [Cork paper.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.

By a letter from St. Thomas, dated Nov. 6, we learn the following particulars of South America.

Gen. Bolivar had despatched gen Anguatugi with 2500 men to take Santa Martha.—Bolivar is busily engaged in organizing the army lately raised in New Grenada. The number is said to be 8000. A portion of the money which was taken at Santa Fee had reached St. Angostura, and some of it had arrived at St. Thomas. The doubloons of 1819 are unusually heavy. This money has given new life to the Patriot cause. Their army is in a plentiful country, and well supplied with provisions and forage. It is the opinion of our correspondent, that if the Patriots do not quarrel, or if strong reinforcements to the royal army do not arrive from Spain, Morillo and every hostile Spaniard will be forced to leave Venezuela in less than six months.

General Morillo, at the latest dates, was at Tinaquillo, where he had entrenched himself. Since he left St. Fernandez de Apure and Calaboza, those places had been taken by the Independents.

General Merino with about 2,000 men, are posted at Maturia, in the province of Cumana. Bermudez is at Margaritta, organizing the 1500 Irish troops, of Deveraux corps, who have arrived there. These troops are to unite under Gen. Marino, and march upon Caraccas.

General Paez is said to be advancing from the army of Bolivar with about 6,000 men, to attack Morillo, who is supposed to be inclined to retreat upon the fortified town and harbor of Porto Cavello.

We are assured by our correspondent, that he has ascertained those facts from authentic sources. He further adds, "It is certain that Arauzamendi, who was sent to St. Angostura, as a state prisoner, is now vice-president of the Cortez, and has had Brion called before the house to give an account of his conduct."

Manchester, Oct. 21.

HUNT'S ADDRESS TO HIS FRIENDS.

The following is the copy of a letter from Mr. Hunt, received this day by the proprietor of the Manchester Observer, for insertion in his paper—

To the brave Reformers of Lancashire, Cheshire, Yorkshire, the whole of the north of England and Scotland.

My beloved Friends and Fellow Countrymen,

Our enemies have declared open hostilities against us and the laws of England. The infamous authorities at Manchester, under the sanction of a corrupt and cruel ministry, were the first to cry "havoc, and let slip the dogs of war!" On the never-to-be-forgotten 16th of August, they polluted the history of the present age with the foulest stain, the crimson gore of their fellow men, women and children. Every exertion to bring the instigators of these cowardly —— to justice, has hitherto failed, and we have not therefore been mocked, with even the show of fair play. All disguise has been thrown off, and the unmasked hypocrite stands now before us in the naked form of a military armed ruffian. But, my friends, we must be patient and persevering, and not suffer ourselves to be driven off our guard; these lawless proceedings are meant to irritate us into some indiscreet show of resistance, of which our watchful enemies are anxiously prepared to to take immediate advantage; well knowing, as they do, that nothing strengthens and consolidates the iron arm of despotism so much as the premature and unsucessful attempt to destroy it.

I am induced to urge this caution, from the knowledge which I have, that spies and informers are abroad, and sent among you. The system of espionage is now carried to such an extent, that there is not a tap-room or a pot-house in the metropolis, or scarcely in the country, without one or two of these worthies being in nightly attendance; and not only my lord Sidmouth, but the lord mayor of London, knows the substance of every conversation that passes there, as well as those who frequent those hot beds of every thing that is base and profligate. These monsters in human form are hired and paid to make plots, and entrap the unwary into a participation of their hellish plans. Your parts of the country are full of them, that they may hatch up some imaginary treason, preparatory to the meeting of parliament, which is to take place, as the Courier informs us, to put down treason, which, of course, they will not fail to manufacture for the occasion. I know that some of these are about to urge you to simultaneous meetings in the early part of November, but beware, my friends, and disappoint the tygers of their prey.—There are those who are gone from the metropolis to Manchester and elsewhere, for this purpose, the money to pay for whose expences, there and back, I have not the least doubt, may be traced to Whitehall, although those who have been the incautious and unsuspecting instruments may not be aware of the fact; but recollect my friends, that, at such a period as the present, an ignorant and indiscreet zeal may produce more mischief than even an Oliver himself. I am the last man on earth that would advise you to refrain from meeting to express your grievances, and to demand your rights. Nay, I would urge a meeting in every county, city town and parish, in the United Kingdom, where they have not already met to express their opinions upon the —— at Manchester, and to take measures for bringing the —— and their abettors to justice. But if any one has been from London to advise or recommend a meeting at Manchester, under the present agitated state of the public mind, he must be a remorseless fiend indeed. No one will go to such a meeting unarmed, after the cowardly —— and mutilations which were perpetrated on the 26th; and where is the man that would advise you to meet armed? I say, my friends of Manchester, meet not till every effort has failed, to bring to justice the ——; and then, and not till then, will there be any question whether you ought to meet or not.

I know and can naturally feel, that all those who were present at Manchester on the 16th, must be anxious to have arms to protect themselves from a repitition of such wanton cruelties and as I know of no law yet, that prohibits an Englishman from having arms for his own protection, I will not take upon myself to recommend you not to have them, but of this I am quite sure, that no man should procure arms surreptiously, or keep them secretly—all should be done as openly (if at all) and the purpose as openly avowed as the armed association that are training in the different parts of the kingdom.

But above all my friends, enter not the doors of a public house—refrain from all spirituous and intoxicating liquors. Remember that nine tenths of the publicans are your enemies, they are tools in the hands of the magistrates, and must do any thing they wish them to do, however disgraceful, in order to secure their licences.

Abstain from beer, spirits and tea, and your health, your morals, your pockets, and your characters as men will be improved. Your enemies encourage you to gamble and get drunk, for a two-fold purpose—the one to pick your pockets—the other to render you slaves.

As I am now pressed for time, I shall do myself the honor of addressing you again very soon. In the mean time, believe me your sincere friend, H. HUNT.

Middleton Cottage, Oct. 12.

PHILLIPS'S SPEECH.

We have heretofore published several of the speeches delivered by Charles Phillips, Esqr. (the celebrated Irish Orator,) both in the public political meetings, and in courts of justice. We have now the pleasure of presenting a specimen of his eloquence on a new and very different occasion. The following is the substance of a speech which he delivered at Cheltenham (Eng.) on the 7th of October, at the "Fourth Anniversary of the Gloucestershire Missionary Society." It will probably be considered, by many of our readers, as one of his happiest efforts.

[N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

Mr. Phillips came forward, and thus addressed the Chairman:—"Sir, after the eloquence with which so many gentlemen have gratified and deligted this most respectably assembly, and after the almost inspired address of one of them, I feel almost ashamed of having acceded to the wishes of the committee by proposing the resolution which I have the honor to submit. I should apologize, Sir, for even the few moments intrusion which I mean to make upon this meeting. I did not feel that I had no right to consider myself as quite a stranger; did I not feel that the subject unites us all into one great social family, and gives to the nearest sojourner the claim of a brother and a friend. (Applause.)—At a time like this, perhaps, when the Infidel is abroad, and the Atheist and the Disbeliever triumph in their blasphemy, it behoves the humblest christian to range himself beneath the banners of his faith, and attest, even by his martyrdom, the sincerity of his allegiance. (Great Applause.)—When I consider the source from whence Christianity sprung—the humility of its origin—the poverty of its disciples—the miracles of its creation—the mighty sway it has acquired, not only over the civilized world, but which your missions are hourly extending over lawless, mindless, and imbruted regions—I own the awful presence of the Godhead—nothing less than a Divinity could have done it! The powers, the prejudices, the superstitions of the earth were all in arms against it; it had not sword nor sceptre—its founder was in rags—its apostles were lowly fishermen—its inspired prophets lowly & uneducated—its cradle was a manger—its home a dugeon—its earthly diadem a crown of thorns! And yet, forth it went—that lowly, humble, persecuted spirit—and the idols of the Heathen fell; and the thrones of the mighty trembled, and Paganism saw her peasants and her princes fall down and worship the unarmed Conquerer! (This admirable portrait of the Divine Spirit and attributes of Christianity was hailed with the most enthusiastic peals of approbation.)—If this be not the work of the Divinity, then I yield to the reptile ambition of the Atheist. I see no God above—I see no government below; and I yield my consciousness of an immortal soul to his boasted fraternity with the worm that perishes!—But, Sir, even when I thus concede to him the Divine origin of our Christian faith, I arrest him upon worldly principles—I desire him to produce, from all the wisdom of the earth, so pure a system of practical morality—a code of ethics more sublime in its conception—more simple in its means—more happy and more powerful in its operation; and, if he cannot do so, I then say to him, Oh! in the name of your own darling policy, filch not its guide from youth, its shield from manhood, and its crutch from age! (Great Applause.) Though the light I follow may lead me astray, still I think it is light from Heaven! The good, and great, and wise, are my companions—my delightful hope is harmless, if not holy; and wake me not to a disappointment, which is your tomb of annihilation, I shall not taste hereafter! To propogate the sacred creed—to teach the ignorant—to enrich the poor—to illume this world with the splendors of the next—to make men happy, you have never seen—and to redeem millions you can never know—you have sent your hallowed Missionaries forward; and never did an holier vision rise, than that of this celestial, glorious embassy. (Applause.)—Methinks I see the band of willing exiles bidding farewell, perhaps, forever to their native country; foregoing home, and friends, and luxury—to tempt the savage sea, or men more savage than the raging element—to dare the polar tempest, and the tropic fire, and often doomed by the forfeit of their lives to give their precepts a proof and an expiation—(Applause.) It is quite delightful to read over their reports, and see the blessed product of their labors. They leeve no clime unvisited, no peril unencountered. In the South Sea Islands they found the population almost eradicated by the murders of idolatry. "It was God Almighty," says the Royal Convert of Otahite, "who sent your Mission to the remainder of my people. I do not wish to shock your Christian ears with the cruelties from which you have redeemed those Islands. Will you believe it that they had been connected in such cannibal ferocity, as to excavate the earth, and form an oven of burning stones, into which they literally threw their living infants, and gorged their infernal appetites with the flesh! Will you believe it, that they thought murder grateful to the God of Mercy!—and the blood of his creatures as their best libation! In nine of these islands those abominations are extinct—infanticide is abolished—there prisoners are exchangde—society is now augmented by the bond of brotherhood, and the accursed shrines that streamed with human gore and blazed with human unction, now echo the songs of peace and the sweet strains of piety. In India, too, where, Providence, for some special purpose, permits these little insular specks to hold above one hundred millions in subjection—a phenomena scarcely to be paralleled in history—the spell of Brahma is dissolving—the chains of Caste are falling off—the wheels of Jughernaut are scarce ensanguined—the horrid custom of self-immolation is daily disapappearing—and the sacred stream of Jordan mixes with the the Ganges—(Great applause.)—Even the rude soldier, 'mid the din of arms, and the license of the camp, (makes our missionary) the Bible the inmate of his knapsack, and the companion of his pillow.' Such has been the success of your missions in that country, that one of your own Judges has publicly avowed, that those who left India some years ago, can form no just estimate of what now exists there. Turn from these lands to that of Africa, a name I can now mention without horror. In sixteen of their towns and many of their islands, we see the sun of christianity arising, and as it rises, the whole spectral trail of superstition vanishing in air.—Agriculture and civilization are busy—in the Desart, and the poor Hottentot, keeping at the altar, implores his God to remember not the Slave trade.—(Applause)—If any thing, Sir, could add to what I feel, it is the consciousness that knowledge and christianity are advancing hand in hand, and that wherever I see your missionaries journeying, I see schools rising up, as it were, the landmark of their progress. And who can tell what the consequences of this may be in after ages? Who can tell whether those remote regions may not, hereafter, become the rivals of European improvement? Who shall place a bar upon the intellect derived from the Almighty? Who shall say that the future poet shall not fascinate the wilds, and that the philosopher and the statesman shall not repose together beneath the shadow of their palm-trees?—This may be visionary, but surely in a moral point of view, the advantages of education are not visionary.—[A long and continued burst of applause followed this passage, and in its ardor impeded the connexion and progress of our report, and prevented us from detailing some most excellent remarks on the advantages of the cultivation of the human mind.]—Those, Sir—the propagation of the Gospel—the advancement of science and industry—the perfection of the arts—the diffusion of knowledge—the happiness of mankind here and hereafter—these are the blessed objects of your Missionaries, and, compared with these, all human ambition sinks into the dust:—the ensanguined chariot of the conqueror pauses—the sceptre falls from the imperial grasp—the blossom withers even in the patriot's garland. But deeds like these require no panegyric—in the words of that dear friend whose name can never die—[In this allusion to his lamented friend, Curran, Mr. Phillips's feelings were evidently much affected.]—'They are recorded in the heart from whence they sprung, and in the hour of adverse vicissitude, if ever it should arrive, sweet will be the odour of their memory, and precious the balm of their consolation.'

"Before I sit down, Sir, I must take the liberty of saying, that the principal objection which I have heard raised against your Institution is with me the principal motive of my admiration—I allude, Sir, to the diffusive principles on which it is founded. I have seen too much, Sir, of sectarian bigotry. As a man I abhor it—as a christian, I blush at it—it is not only degrading to the religion that employs even the shadow of intolerance, but it is an impious despotism in the government that countenances it. These are my opinions, and I will not suppress them. Our religion has its various denominations, but they are struggling to the same mansion, though by different avenues, and when I meet them on their way—I no not care whether they be Protestant or Presbyterian, Dissenter or Catholic, I know them as Christians, and I will embrace them as my brethren. [This noble and liberal sentiment was received with the warmest bursts of heartfelt sympathy and delight.]—I hail, then, the foundation of such a Society as this—I hail it, in many respects, as an happy omen—I hail it as an angury of that coming-day when the bright bow of Christianity, commencing in the heavens and encompassing the earth, shall include the children of every clime and color beneath the arch of its promise and the glory of its protection. Sir, I thank this meeting for the more than courtesy with which it has received me, and I feel great pleasure in proposing this resolution for adoption."

A NEW WAY OF FISHING FOR PICKPOCKETS.

On Thursday, the — inst. a young merchant of this city was robbed of Boggs & Thompson's auction, of his pocket-book, containing cash, and notes to a considerable amount—several others were robbed at the same time.

The ensuing morning an elderly gentleman from Albany, boarding in the same house with the merchant, advised him to fasten a string to his pocket book and the other end to his pocket, filled with newspapers, &c. and repair to the same place. In a few moments he felt a nibble, and directly after a strong bite—the string broke, he coolly cast his eyes back upon his man, pale and trembling, and with much presence of mind appeared not to notice it. In a moment he observed his man writhing from the crowd, going up Wall-street with a quick step—he soon whistled and two others followed him, all three set off together in great glee down Cedar street to the North River, the merchant and two faithful friends following at a proper distance unobserved. At the end of a wharf, at the moment they were opening the pocket book to divide the supposed spoil, the merchant and his two associates seized upon the three and the gentlemen are all safely lodged in Bridewell. This and other expedients we hope will soon rid our city of such vermin. [N. York Columbian.

CONDITION OF SPAIN.

The following extracts, which well deserve in one of our latest London papers give a sad picture of the condition of the Spanish monarchy, in the beginning of last month.

EXTRACTS FROM MADRID.

"Conspiracies, arrests and denunciations succeed each other with rapidity—our paper money is no longer current—all the public coffers are empty, the pay of the officers and persons belonging to the government is several months in arrear, and the noise of our maritime preparations, which for two years have excited the attention of Europe and America, no longer creates wonder. The Spanish people, during the late war had sacrificed everything for the person and cause of their present sovereign, but since the happy period of the return of his majesty, the peninsula is filled with discontented and factious persons. The holy office obstinately persecutes the smallest vestiges of freemasonry—the Jesuits, now revived, multiply astonishingly, and schools of mutual instruction are opening in every part of the kingdom, under the protection of the prince, and the principal lords of the court. The contagion ravages the best provinces, whilst this capital sounds with the discharge of artillery announcing the festivities of his majesty's marriage!

The Cadiz expedition is at length broken up. They now burn the provisions and military effects; communication is no longer kept up with the vessels stationed in the different ports on the coast of Andalusia. The troops carried back into the interior, disperse of themselves. Cadiz, St. Mary's, Isla de Leon, Chiclana, St. Lucar, maritime Andalusia, and even Seville and perhaps Cordova, are a prey to the yellow fever brought from the Havana, and combined with the epidemic which desolates the coast of Africa. Greedy English and French speculators, attracted by the hopes of exorbitant freights and a future sale of goods which the government seemed to wink at, have come to die aside of their bales which must now be committed to the flamos. The crews of the transports have also caught the contagion. Some captains, it is said, have been able to escape from the circle in which they were kept. They carry death with them, and even all Europe is threatened if some barrier is not put to the communications of Spain with other nations.

Of what avail are now those immense preparations of which some official proclaimers have announced the unerring consequences for more than two years. The contagion has at length put an end to this tedious rhodomontade. Moderate calculations state the expences to be 25 millions of dollars already incurred for this subject, and our fairest provinces are a prey to devastations. We must not henceforward expect bulletins detailing the ravages of the fever. The dead are no longer counted, and they are afraid of making their numbers known.

Whilst the plague is devouring Andalusia, the Inquisition has seized Grenada. Arrests are every day increased. The Count LA PEÑA, Messrs. MENDOZA, DAVILA, and members of equally distinguished persons have been conveyed to prison, or have distributed in the convents; the monks serve as gaolers, though the prisoners do not for this fare better. Freemasonry is the chief charge. General E continues to look after the Valen conspiracy. Before his time, the inquisition had never been called upon solemnly to take cognizance of which religion had no part. The ordinary tribunals did all that was necessary. The present governor has discovered that the latter were too slow. But why be astonished! Have we any fundamental constitution or powers legally balanced? Certainly not; the minister is authorised to speak in the name of the monarch. Behold our code! This Elio knew well when he came to Valencia, at the end of May, 1814, to offer his sword to FERDINAND, and to beseech him to reign according to the manner of his august ancestors. When the monarch thus reigns, the captains general govern the provinces accordingly.

The war minister addresses to all the commanders of provinces orders to hunt down the deserters from the late expedition. These unhappy soldiers, flying from the contagion, carry it with them wherever they go. But who can stop their flight?

One of our diplomatists endeavored, to find out the conduct the United States would pursue on learning the non-ratification of the Florida Treaty. Will you make war on us, said he to an American minister? My nation has too much pity for you. If we declare war against you, a simple demonstration on our part would realize the independence of your colonies. You would then have no more money to expend, nor troops to consume in this quarrel. We should rather wish to punish you by letting you follow up the system you have adopted. With regard to the indemnities you owe us, we shall always find out a good mortgage. Ferdinand VII. is a powerful monarch in his own country, but he cannot change the geographical position of the Floridas & of the Havanah, or of Mexico."

By Divine permision, elder O. B. Brown will preach in the Baptist meeting house, this evening, at candle light.

Extracts from a Law

Of the Corporation to provide for the speedy extinguishment of Fire, &c.

Sec 1. That every proprietor of any dwelling house, or store house within the limits of the corporation, shall, at his or her own expence, provide as many fire buckets, made of good and suitable leather, and containing at least two and a half gallons, as shall be equal in number to the stories in such house. Provided, That no proprietor shall, in any case be compelled to provide more than three buckets for one house. Every proprietor who shall neglect to procure the proper number of buckets in the manner herein directed, shall forfeit and pay one dollar per month for each bucket he shall so neglect to procure. The proprietors of all dwelling houses and store houses which shall hereafter be erected within the corporation, shall furnish the same with buckets in the manner before prescribed, within two months after such houses shall be occupied; or failing to do so, shall be subject to the penalties before mentioned.

2. Where the proprietor of any dwelling house or store house residing out of the limits of the corporation, shall neglect to comply with the requisitions of this act, the occupier of such house shall within two months after coming to the possession thereof, procure the necessary buckets; and failing to provide the same, shall be subject to the like penalties as are in such case imposed on the proprietor.

3. It shall be the duty of the superintendent of police, once in six months at least, to visit the houses within the limits of the corporation to examine and take an account of the buckets belonging to such houses, and to report to the mayor the names of all persons who shall neglect to provide and keep the same, according to the requisitions of this act.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday, the 11th inst. a negro man, named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Dick Douglas. He is a small man about 5 feet 6 inches high, and is not a very black man. I purchased him from the estate of Edgar McCarty, esq. Cedar Grove, Fairfax county, Va. and it is likely that he may be lurking about that neighborhood or Colchester, as he has a wife at capt Berry's of the latter place; or he may have gone to Loudoun county, as he has lived there in the neighborhood of Wm. McCarty and John McCarty, near Leesburg. He had on and took with him an old grey cloth coat and a brown do pantaloons of drab colored domestic cloth. He is much addicted to liquor, and is a coarse shoemaker. I will give 20 dollars if taken in the district of Columbia Thirty dollars if taken in Fairfax county, and the above reward if apprehended in any other place, and secured so that I get him again; and reasonable charges if brought home. RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living near Aldie, Loudoun county, Virginia, on the night of the 11th inst. a negro man, who calls his name NED BIAYS. He is a shrewd, intelligent negro, about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high; 30 years of age, well made, active and polite. Had on when he went away, a sky colored coat, and corded pantaloons. His right eye sore, apparently occasioned by a blow, the blood having settled around it. His ears have been pierced, and had green silk in them when he went away. It is expected he is now lurking about Fairfax court-house and Aldie. The above Ned Biays ran away on the night of the 25th of last Aug. and was caught on the 11th inst. on the night of which he effected his elopement by drawing the staple to which he was fastened by the handle of a pan, while there was no person in the kitchen but himself. He was caught on the 11th inst. a few miles below Aldie, but I think it improbable that he has gone near the same place again. I will give 100 dollars if he is taken out of the county, and fifty if taken in the county, and secured so that I get him again, and all reasonable charges if brought home. GEO. GULICK.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the sirname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trowsers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.

Orphans' Court,

Alexandria county, October Term, 1819.

ORDERED, That the executor of JAMES CROWDHILL, deceased, do insert the usual notice to debtors and creditors, three times in each week for three weeks, in the Alexandria newspapers.

A copy—Teste. A. MOORE, Reg.

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE,

That the subscriber of Alexandria county, in the District of Columbia, has obtained from the Orphans' Court of said county, letters testamentary on the estate of James Crowdhill, late of said county, deceased.—All persons having claims against the said decedent are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, passed by the Orphans' Court, on or before the 14th day of April next, or they may by law be excluded from all benefit to said estate; and those indebted thereto are required to make immediate payment. Given under my hand this 14th October, 1819. JAMES H. HOOE,
Executor of James Crowdhill, deceased.
